Computational Statistics and its Challenges in E-commerce

Panelist: S. Banerjee, W. Jank, G. Jones

This panel would discuss modern aspects of computational statistics (such as MCMC and other computationally intensive models and methods) and its implementation in eCommerce from the point of view of statistics, information systems, possibly even computer science. The discussion could range from handling massive datasets, to new types of samplers, to dynamic models and more.